Peter MacCann is the General Manager of Dublin's most luxurious 5-Star hotel, The Merrion, which opened in October 1997. MacCann joined The Merrion from the Sheen Falls Lodge in Kenmare (a member of the prestigious Relais et Châteaux group), where he was General Manager. Prior to that he was with the Conrad International Hotel, Dublin.

From Co. Meath, Peter MacCann was educated at Clongowes Wood College, County Kildare. He trained in Ireland, and started his career in England with Forte hotels.

"To be involved in the opening of a 5-star luxury hotel in Dublin was an irresistible opportunity," says MacCann. "The Merrion has the winning combination of a remarkable building, first-class facilities and the latest technology. This means we can confidently offer our guests international levels of service and exceed their expectations."

In his spare time, Peter MacCann, who is married with two sons, enjoys golf, travel and fine wines.

The Merrion is set within four magnificent Georgian townhouses and a specially commissioned contemporary Garden Wing, built around two private landscaped 18th century gardens. All four houses have been granted a List I preservation order.

The hotel comprises 123 rooms and 19 suites, subtly designed using Georgian colours, Irish fabrics and antiques, to reflect the architecture and original interiors. Throughout the hotel, guests benefit from the latest technology. There is a choice of two restaurants and two bars. A luxurious Spa and swimming pool, a private car park, and six conference rooms complete The Merrion's impressive list of facilities.

The Merrion is an independently managed and marketed hotel, with a joint ownership of private investors. The Chairman of the Board of The Merrion's development company, Landmark Investments, is Mr. Lochlann Quinn.
