

The Whiskey 'Fireside Chats' series returns to The Merrion hotel

... The Jameson Company was established in 1780 when John Jameson established the Bow Street Distillery in Dublin ...

The 'Whiskey Fireside Chats' series makes a welcome return to Dublin's most prestigious 5 star hotel, The Merrion, this Autumn. The luxurious Bar No. 23 at The Merrion will welcome back Jameson's World Ambassador Liam Donegan, who will be on hand to educate guests on the world's leading whiskeys through unique and intimate tastings, which will warm even the coldest of winter evenings! Liam Donegan has made many Jameson presentations world wide as one of three Jameson World Ambassadors. His experience backed by his knowledge will guarantee a truly memorable experience.

Two exclusive 'Fireside Chats', one taking place on Wednesday, October 19th and the second on Wednesday, November 16th will be dedicated to the Pot Still Irish Whiskey range which is unique to Ireland, specifically to the Midleton Distillery in Co. Cork and is regarded as the quintessential style of Irish whiskey . The range includes Redbreast 12, Redbreast 15, Green Spot, Powers John's Lane Release, Midleton Barry Crockett Legacy).

Both events are priced at €27 per person, canapés will be served on the evening and are included in the price. The events will both run from 7pm until 9pm, ideal for 25 whiskey enthusiasts eager to delve further into the wonderful world of whiskey.

The 142-room Merrion, located on Upper Merrion Street in the center of Dublin, was created from four landscaped terrace houses (one was the birthplace of the first Duke of Wellington) and combined with a specially commissioned contemporary wing that wraps around two distinctive private gardens. The Merrion also boasts one of the most important private collections of art in Ireland.
